From the Chairman

There are now only about two months until EUPJ’s first-ever conference in London. On pages 3 & 4 in this newsletter are more details about the terrific programme being planned, and I hope to see our friends from many countries together in this cosmopolitan city. If you have not already registered please do so swiftly.

Your EUPJ Management Committee is involved in other matters in addition to the Conference. For example in November Leslie Bergman and EUPJ Rabbinic Advisor Rabbi Reuven Bar Ephraim spent a weekend in Iberia - in Spain to have discussions with our communities there and in Portugal to meet a possible new member of EUPJ. Last month I travelled to Esch-sur-Alzette in Luxembourg for the installation of Rabbi Alexander Grodensky. Both Leslie and I are involved with initiatives in Hungary and the Czech Republic which could result in Progressive Judaism growing in both countries.

One of our vice-chairmen, Michael Reik, is deeply involved with the Domim project underwritten by the Israeli government which seeks to establish links between Israeli congregations and communities in the Diaspora. Our other vice-chairman, Stéphane Beder, is at the centre of the formation of a national French Progressive assembly. These activities are only a few examples of the work in which we engage.

Western Wall to have egalitarian space

On 31 January 2016 history was made. The Israeli government agreed to give unprecedented recognition to Progressive, Reform and Conservative Judaism at one of Judaism’s holiest places, the Western Wall (Kotel). For decades, Israel has given full religious authority at the Kotel to Orthodox and ultra-Orthodox Judaism. That is about to change.

The Reform Movement, the Conservative Movement, Women of the Wall, and the Jewish Federations negotiated a deal that was just publicly announced and approved.

The decision will create a permanent and official, fully egalitarian space at the Kotel, a space where men and women will be able to pray together without gender barriers; where women will be able to read from the Torah and wear prayer shawls; and where families will be able to celebrate bar and bat mitzvah ceremonies and other events together.

The new, egalitarian section of the Western Wall will be officially registered in Israel’s Law of Holy Sites. Access to the new section will be from the main public plaza. Visitors to the Kotel will now be able to decide whether they want to go to the gender-segregated Orthodox section, or to the section where men and women can pray together in the spirit of Progressive Judaism.

Letters

Dear Arthur, I would like to thank you for the beautiful article you wrote about my first visit to Atid. It was very nice meeting you and your wife. I hope you both had a great time in Spain.

Haim Casas, Student Rabbi

Abraham Fund statement

The Abraham Fund Initiatives is a not-for-profit organisation working since 1989 to promote coexistence and equality among Israel’s Jewish and Arab-Palestinian citizens. The Abraham Fund denounces the recent disparaging remarks, made by Israeli public figures, against the Reform movement and other Progressive Jewish movements. If there is any hope of creating a more just, peaceful and inclusive society in Israel, it is thanks to the fact that millions of Progressive Jews around the world are still interested and engaged with Israel and its challenges. The Abraham Fund’s vision, of almost 30 years, of fostering a shared society and citizenship between Jews and Arabs in Israel, has relied on the voice and support of Progressive and Liberal Jews from around the world. We hope that the undermining remarks will in no way deter members of these communities from remaining committed to bringing their values to Israeli society; theirs is a defining voice in our social discourse.

An international blog - from Chicago, Madrid and Copenhagen

Most if not all of our EUPJ congregations get visitors passing through for a Jewish holiday or a Shabbat. I have written in this newsletter about my very positive experiences visiting both Beit Krakow and Atid in Barcelona. In Copenhagen at Shir Hatzafon, we have had tourists from cruise ships, people on an airport stopover, business travellers, parents visiting their children who are studying at a Danish university or who are working in Denmark, synagogue tour groups, the occasional ‘wandering Jew’, etc.

On Friday February 5, Shir Hatzafon welcomed two college women to our Kabbalat Shabbat service and potluck buffet with our newly contracted Rabbi Sandra Kviet (see page 10), and while we enjoyed meeting and being with them, they likewise enjoyed encountering us. One was Hannah Schlacter, a student at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign who is spending a semester in Madrid and has become involved with the EUPJ Reform Community there (see page 7). She wrote about her experience so beautifully that with her permission I share it with all of you here. Hannah writes about finding ruach, spirit, and I invite you to read her blog about a living Progressive Judaism.

Beth Hillel, Brussels
In less than 60 days Progressive Jews from Europe and around the world will gather in London for the first ever EUPJ Biennial Conference to be held here. We expect that this will be the best attended and most diversely represented EUPJ Conference, with over 260 delegates from 23 countries having already registered to attend. Those attending include the rabbinic and lay leadership from our communities and movements as well as educators and teachers, those wanting to experience and learn and many young adults and student rabbis.

This conference will be a unique opportunity to study with, learn from, sing and pray with, and chat to friends and fellow Progressive Jews from around the world. The theme of “Building Bridges” is the perfect opportunity to experience the diversity of our ideas and practices, whilst being aware that all are firmly rooted in our traditions.

In keeping with this ideal, the programme is filled with a diverse selection of workshops and sessions. As well as interesting discussions, there will be sessions that celebrate our communities, that will give you ideas to take home with you and things to think about that will undoubtedly inspire you.

Join us for the opening ceremony Thursday April 14 and experience the splendour of London’s historic Guildhall.

THE POLITICS OF CITIES AND THEIR JEWISH VOICES - Hear from leaders in Berlin, London, Paris and Jerusalem about how being a Jewish voice in a dynamic, culturally diverse city is both a challenge and a way to genuinely build bridges.

SALTZ WORKSHOP on strategic planning in communities led by Rabbi Steve Burnstein.

Sessions that focus on YOUNG ADULTS and their engagement outside the boundaries of community.

ISRAEL is at the heart of our programme. We will be joined by Anat Hoffman and Prof. Fania Oz Salzburger as well as representatives from ARZENU, IRAC and the IMPJ. We will be covering Jewish identity, city politics and racism in Israel and we will be looking at models for European communities to engage with Progressive communities in Israel and how to build informed and lasting relationships.

ISSUES THAT MATTER – anti-Semitism, interfaith relationships and demographic shifts in Jewish communities around the world are on the agenda. Dr Jonathan Boyd from the Institute for Jewish Policy Research will look at the facts and figures that speak to these issues, with thoughtful responses from our communities as to how we are responding to them.

THERE IS STILL TIME TO REGISTER, click here.
Rabbi Danny Rich and Rabbi Laura Janner-Klausner (rabbinic heads of the Liberal and Reform Movements in the UK) will set out a vision for building a dynamic and inspiring Progressive Judaism in Europe and how we might use this as a basis for building wider, stronger bridges within our community, with other faith communities and beyond.

SHABBAT AFTERNOON TOUR OPTIONS:

A private tour to Westminster Synagogue and the Czech Scrolls Museum - which tells the story of a small but remarkable episode in the history of European Jewry. In 1942 a plan was devised to bring the religious treasures from the deserted provincial communities of Bohemia and Moravia to the comparative safety of Prague. There are 1800 scrolls of which 1564 came to Westminster Synagogue in 1964.

Victoria & Albert Museum - visit the world’s leading museum of art and design and take a tour of their Judaica collection with Curator Louise Hoffman. Then you can explore the many galleries of design, fashion, jewellery, ceramics, medieval & renaissance, sculpture, theatre & performance and more.

A private tour to the National Portrait Gallery - join prize-winning guide and author, Rachel Kolsky, for this fascinating tour profiling portraits and artists through which you discover members of the Jewish community who became representative British subjects in the fields of politics, finance, industry and culture.

Central Synagogue comes to Milan

Thirty members of the confirmation class of New York's Central Synagogue, led by the congregation's Senior Rabbi, Angela Buchdahl, visited Milan the weekend of February 12-14. It was a truly memorable experience for both them and Milan's Beth Shalom.

We began with a traditional Shabbat dinner for the class attended by Beth Shalom's Board and its visiting rabbi, Leigh Lerner and his wife Loren. The most moving part of the weekend was our Shabbat morning service with both Rabbi Lerner and Rabbi Buchdahl, who led the Congregation in chanting the Shabbat morning prayers in her remarkable voice.

For the first time in Italy, the co-president of the Milan Jewish Community, Milo Hasbani was called to the Torah for a joint aliyah with Beth Shalom's President, Carey Bernitz. The hall was overflowing with more than 100 worshipers, a record for our congregation. Click here for Rabbi Buchdahl's D'var Torah.

A special interlude was a dialogue with seven of Beth Shalom's younger members and Central Synagogue's confirmation class. The New Yorkers were surprised at both how difficult it is to be a Jew in Milan in an almost completely non-Jewish country and how much dedication is required by the Beth Shalom congregation to develop a progressive movement that faces determined opposition by the Orthodox community.

On Sunday morning, David Ross, Honorary President, and his wife Carol accompanied the group to the Memoriale della Shoah, built on Binario 21, the train track where Milanese Jews were put into cattle cars and taken to Auschwitz in 1943. They were welcomed by Roberto Jarach, Vice President of the Shoah Memoriale and Vice President of UCEI, the governing body of Italian Jewish communities. The students were visibly moved by going into the actual cattle cars which were used to transport Jews to the death camps. Rabbi Buchdahl led the group in a special Kaddish. They then left to visit Venice and its Ghetto, which this year is commemorating 500 years since its original establishment.

Not all was study and prayers. The group fell in love with Italian gelato and even made a special stop after dinner on Saturday evening at one of Milan's trendy gelato shops.

Tu B'Shvat Seder in Utrecht

Our community, LJGU, was founded in 1993, fulfilling the wish of those living in the centre of the Netherlands to attend services close their home. A tiny space was rented from the YWCA for improvised services, which included carrying the Torah scroll through the streets of Utrecht, from its storage at a community member's home to shul.

Today, we are the proud tenants of a proper synagogue located at the former Jewish orphanage in Utrecht, which was left abandoned after World War II. Through chance and decisive action we can now proudly call it OUR PLACE.

On January 30 we held a short Shabbat service and afterwards the Tu B'Shvat Seder in the happy presence of some 50 members and kids. The Seder was led by Gaby and Mischa Schrijver as they did the same a few days earlier in our sister community in the east of Holland. Their dedication and enthusiasm brought one of our members to spontaneously sing about her love for Israel. LJGU's got talent!

It's a well-known Jewish tradition to create an abundant choice of food on the table. But the amount and diversity of fruits and our delicacies presented at this seder added another dimension to this celebration.

Lev Chadash in Milan Shoah memorial event

On January 26, Lev Chadash, along with other Jewish, resistance and survivor organisations, participated in a Shoah memorial tribute at the Sala Expo. Lev Chadash President Carlo Riva was one of the principal speakers.
News from Beth Hillel, Brussels
2015 was for Beth Hillel, Brussels a year of celebrations for its 50th anniversary. 2016 has started in a more quiet way, but celebrations and new initiatives are still at the heart of our congregation.
On Sunday January 24 we held our Tu B’Shvat Seder, an opportunity for everyone to find his/her way back to nature and to the various fruits that are eaten during this festive gathering.
Our Rabbi, Marc Neiger, has started giving monthly lectures on Jewish themes and on more general and secular themes, but from a Jewish Progressive perspective. The first subject was “Procreation and contraception in Judaism”. With the current spread of the zika virus, the issue is coming more acutely in focus. The next subject will be “Halakha and Haggadah”.
At the end of February we will have a new celebration around Tehima, the “kabbalistic yoga”, with Frank Lalou and Tina Bosi.
If you plan to come to Brussels and want to attend our Shabbat services, please remeber to inform our secretary in advance at secretariat@beth-hillel.org or at +32 2 332 2528.
See you soon in Brussels or in London for the EUPJ Biennial Conference.

Human Rights Shabbat in Esch
This year Chanukah celebrations at the Liberal Jewish Community of Luxembourg in Esch-sur-Alzette were enriched by a special Human Rights Shabbat, marking the annual International Human Rights Day on December 10. The date was originally chosen to commemorate the United Nations General Assembly’s adoption and proclamation of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights (UDHR), the first global enunciation of human rights, on December 10 1948.
The idea to devote a Shabbat to the Jewish reflection on human rights comes from T’ruah, The Rabbinic Call for Human Rights. The Human Rights Shabbat which was started in 2007 was celebrated in nearly 200 congregations in North America and Europe in 2015. On that special Shabbat communities come together to discuss contemporary human rights struggles and to celebrate the opportunities for cross-fertilisation between universal human rights and Jewish ethical values.
This year, our Human Rights Shabbat coincided with Chanukah and focused on how human rights are a source of light in our world. After Rabbi Alexander Grodensky’s sermon on human rights as a messianic project, we gathered for a podium discussion on the current refugee crisis and its implications for Luxembourg.
The two panelists Corinne Cahen, Luxembourg’s minister of integration (Democratic Party) and Vera Spautz, mayor of Esch-sur-Alzette (Labour Party) shared their thoughts and experience on the topic with the congregation. Corinne Cahen is not only responsible for the integration of refugees on the national level, she is also Jewish and as such the first Jew in the Luxembourg government ever. The vivid discussion was moderated by the prominent Luxembourg journalist Laurent Moyse.

Tu B’Shvat Seder in Madrid

Our rabbi, Stephen Berkowitz, led the Reform Javurah of Madrid in a meaningful and participative Tu B’Shvat Seder for 35 children and adults, inspiring in us a respect for nature and an understanding of the cycle of trees which has a close link to the human cycle. For the Seder, the table was set with fruits, wines, and seven species of Israeli treats. We ate, we sang, and we continued to be inspired by our community tradition of people taking care of our small tree during an annual cycle. This year the honour passed into the hands of a young woman who is a new member. Also we collected funds for collaborating with KKL.

Rabbi Berkowitz will continue visiting our Kehillah while establishing local contact with the Madrid civil society. We feel that our community is growing and moving forward into increasing Progressive Jewish activity in Madrid.

Holocaust Day in Barcelona

Rabbi Stephen Berkowitz is the first Progressive rabbi to address the Catalanian Parliament for Holocaust Day.

For the fourth consecutive year, the Catalan government organised a Holocaust Commemoration. The ceremony took place inside the Catalanian Parliament in Barcelona on January 27 and included leaders of the Jewish community of Catalonia as well as representatives of various associations: Spanish republican deportees, Roma, LGBT, Jehovah's Witnesses and the handicapped.

Some of the officials who participated were: President of the Generalitat of Catalonia Carles Puigdemont i Casamajo, President of the Parliament of Catalonia Carme Forcadell I Lluis, and Barcelona Mayor Ada Colau.

Rabbi Stephen Berkowitz currently serves the Bet Shalom community in Barcelona and the Javura Reformista in Madrid, and he spoke on behalf of the Jewish community of Catalonia.

Here is a video of his speech in Catalan.

News from Netzer Barcelona

In late January, various institutional events commemorating the victims of the Holocaust took place in the Jewish community of Barcelona. Along with Atid (The Progressive Congregation Netzer BCN is active in) our Netzer Barcelona representatives participated in the central event at the Parliament of Catalonia.

Netzer Bogrim said that as a movement, it is very important to fight and make sure those heinous and inhuman acts that happened in the past will never be forgotten, and that it is our top priority to lead by example, Dugma Ishit, in order to prevent this from happening again in the future. It is our duty to continue and educate our Chanichim about our history because in a certain way, today we are all the voices of those who could never tell their story.

Adding to that, we are concerned about the growing anti-Semitism in Catalonia, Spain and Europe. During our visit, we received an encouraging and optimistic message from the political leaders of Catalonia: they will do everything they can to make sure that history won’t repeat itself and Jews will feel safe everywhere they go.

Beit Warszawa events
On Friday evening February 5 at Beit Warszawa we had a special concert, “The Magic of the Chassidic World” with Marcin Król (violin) and Neal Brostoff (piano). Marcin Król graduated from music academies in Krakow and Köln. Neal Brostoff is from California and since 2011 he has taught Jewish and Israeli music history at UCLA. He has also served as music director for synagogues in Los Angeles for 35 years. For February 12 and 13, Beit Warszawa was happy to host Rabbi Joel Rembaum, Rabbi Emeritus of Temple Beth Am in Los Angeles, a congregation he served for 25 years. He previously served as Dean and Professor of History at the American Jewish University in Los Angeles. Rabbi Rembaum has published numerous scholarly articles in the field of Medieval Jewish History. Rabbi Joel taught two wonderful classes during his stay at Beit Warszawa: How Jewish Law Evolves, A Case Study - The Amidah and Created in the Image of God: New Insights into an Ancient Tradition.

Beit Polska update
Jewish Renewal in Poland is doing remarkable work in developing Jewish life in Poland. Despite many challenges, our rabbi, Boris Dolin, and our teachers and lay cantors are educating young people who recently discovered their Jewish roots. Friends of Jewish Renewal in Poland, the World Union for Progressive Judaism (WUPJ), and many individuals support our work. Today Beit Polska numbers three synagogues with a fourth slated to begin operation in Warsaw in March. Six additional groups throughout Poland are waiting for the funds to develop their community. This year we published, to great acclaim our new Siddur. Dozens of people regularised their Jewish status through our rigorous programme that includes classes and eventually formal conversion. Learn about all of our dynamic major initiatives here in the Omnibus – Future Directions.

Sim Shalom Congregation News

Tu B’Shvat Seder at Sim Shalom, Budapest
The fourth weekend in January was a big weekend in Sim Shalom. On Friday and Saturday, our services were led in a very spiritual Hasidic type of ritual by Ariel Pollak, a rabbinic student intern from Abraham Geiger College in Berlin. Most of this service was in Hebrew and was chanted or sung with some very beautiful tunes - and Ariel has a fine voice. Then on Sunday evening we had our Kabbalistic Tu B’Shvat Seder, as we’ve done now for many years. One eats 20 or more varieties of fruits and nuts and drinks four glasses of wine during the service, meanwhile listening to various spoken and sung selections from Jewish literature. It’s a very enjoyable holiday, and you can see our celebration in the photo.

We’re now in the middle of a vigorous search for a new synagogue. This is a very stressful time for all the Board members of Sim Shalom as they juggle various uncertainties and deadlines.

The third piece of news this month is more positive. The Hungarian government had sent a rebuttal to our request that the European Court of Human Rights (ECHR) finally decide in our favour that we are entitled to a very large sum of money as damages for the loss of a share of the property restituted to the greater Jewish community after WWII. The government’s argument against our claim had some serious logical and factual flaws, and we have just sent to ECHR our response that points out these flaws. It’s a good sign that our request for a ECHR decision is moving forward, because we sorely need that money. If we had it now, we could probably buy our current premises and be saved from having to move.

But who ever said that life has to be so simple?

Jess Weil
Lausanne’s first Shacharit service

The GIL (the Liberal Jewish Community of Geneva) has organised the first liberal Jewish Shabbat morning service in Lausanne with more than 100 adults and 20 children.

In March 2013, at the request of a few Jewish families living in Lausanne (60 km from Geneva), a Talmud Torah class was started in Lausanne by the GIL Geneva. Today, there are 29 children attending, divided into three classes. Then in 2014 and 2015 we added Shabbat dinners in Lausanne. Many Lausanne parents and children came to GIL Geneva for the holidays and activities.

On January 9 about a 100 adults and 20 children, members and non-members of the GIL, met in Lausanne for an egalitarian Shabbat morning service led by Rabbi François Garai. Some among them have been dreaming to see this happen for decades, including the daughter and the grandson of founders of the GIL 46 years ago. A former GIL bar mitzvah with his wife and son said “without the GIL, I certainly would not be Jewish today”. The GIL liturgy and songs filled the room (a church parish hall, the only place that could be found for that event). Following a lavish Kiddush there was a presentation and a rich and intense social exchange. Everyone was overwhelmed.

Other activities are already planned, and this may lead, with God’s help and with the dedication of some members who identify with liberal Judaism, to the establishment of a liberal Jewish entity in Lausanne.

An evening with Dr Eva Schloss

The GIL in Geneva was honoured as part of the new cultural events programme for English speaking members and friends to spend a moving evening listening to the story of survival and loss of Eva’s family and her memories of her childhood friend and stepsister Anne Frank. Eva also shared with us the stories behind her many books including one about the beautiful artwork by her brother who did not survive.

Eva impressed us all with her energy, her optimism and her ability to go beyond the horrors of the war to forge a new path in today’s world. Her warmth and humour also came through as she answered the many questions from the audience of all ages.

We wish Eva well as she continues her crucial role of informing and educating future generations.

The book by Gabriel Heim, "I do not want blueberry pie, I just want to get out," which has already been presented in Migwan with an impressive reading, has now undergone a staging, which will be performed on February 29 and March 6 at Philosophicum in Basel. The first performances are part of an entire week on the subject of search and emigration stories in Basel during the Holocaust.

Migwan thanks volunteers & donors

The Kiddush after services needs volunteers. See information and a new list on our bulletin board.

In addition, our community received the following donations in 2015: bread knife for challah, candle holder & candles for Havdalah and Shabbat, cashbox, dough & water colours for the children’s programme, compost container, donation-box, fruit plate, Kiddush glasses, menorah, raffle prizes, piggy bank, soup bowls, and cutlery.

We would like to thank all our volunteers and donors for their personal commitment.
Liberal Judaism welcomes first Scandinavian member synagogue

Shir Hatzafon, Progressive Judaism in Denmark – ‘The Song of the North’ – has become the first Scandinavian member of Liberal Judaism, increasing the movement’s number of members to 42 communities in five countries.

Started informally in 1998, Shir Hatzafon was officially recognised by the Danish government in 2004. Today it has 120 members meeting one weekend a month for services and activities in Copenhagen. They are led by Rabbi Tirzah Ben-David from Israel and Rabbi Sandra Kviat, who became the first ever female Scandinavian rabbi when she was ordained at the Leo Baeck College in London in 2011. Sandra shares her time between Shir Hatzafon and Crouch End Chavurah, as well as being part of Liberal Judaism’s Outreach Team.

Shir Hatzafon’s chair, Adrienne Mannov, addressed Liberal Judaism’s Council on January 26 saying, “We are delighted to become part of this wonderful family of progressive Judaism.” And she wrote in the EUPJ Annual report that “We are happy to be able to supplement our ongoing positive membership with EUPJ with that of Liberal Judaism and firmly believe that with these two strong organizations at our backs, Progressive Judaism has a bright future in Scandinavia.”

The community’s membership was approved unanimously, with Shir Hatzafon becoming the seventh new community to join LJ in the last decade, underlining the movement’s status as the UK’s fastest growing mainstream Jewish tradition.

Welcoming the movement’s newest members, Liberal Judaism’s chief executive Rabbi Danny Rich said: “The values that we share in common as a movement, of equality, inclusivity and egalitarianism are not restricted to British Jewry. Indeed, they are evidence of Judaism’s ability to continue to grow and thrive by ensuring our relevance to modern world.”

This is as true in Denmark as it is here in Britain and we are proud, therefore, to be able to say ‘velkommen (welcome)’ to our newest member.

“We will be offering a home-from-home spiritual base for French progressive Jews in London,” said a spokeswoman. “The sermons will be in French, given by Rabbi René Pfertzel, who also serves the progressive Jewish community in Lyon, France.”

Senior minister Rabbi Alexandra Wright said: “We wish to extend a warm welcome to all those of the French-speaking Jewish community, living in or visiting London, to these new services as well as to all our other services and event. We look forward to seeing them at the LJS.” Read more...

Day Camp for 5-11-year-olds will also run this summer in several locations. We are also running a 10 day tour around Europe for our year 12’s, Kayitz Netzer, where they’ll visit three countries making new friends and learning about these countries today and in the past. Rabbi Stephen Fuchs in Germany

This past fall we had a meaningful and productive ten weeks in Germany where I spoke at several churches and was guest rabbi for the Days of Awe and Simchat Torah in Bad Segeberg. Vickie and I taught at eight different high schools about the exhibit, created by Pastor Ursula Sieg, concerning the travels of Vickie’s 94-year-old mother from Breslau where she was born to Barcelona, to Switzerland, to NYC, to LA and finally to San Francisco where she lives today and where Vickie grew up. It is a wonderful exhibit and a wonderful way to teach about the Shoah to high school students. I also gave a number of talks about my book, the German translation of which has been very gratifyingly received and reviewed. One of the emotional highlights of the trip is described here for the readers of the EUPJ newsletter.

LJG Hamelin news

LJG Hamelin enjoyed the first two Shabbat weekend visits this year and our Tu B’Shvat Seder with Rabbi Sascha Lyskovoy. Our Russian-speaking members were definitely at an advantage, enjoying the philosophical and spiritual depth of his words and thoughts. Naturally, translation was available for German-speakers. Polina Pelts’ project, “Aktion Mensch,” offered members and friends a concert of Jewish music from our choir “Shalom” under the direction of Petr Chrastina. It was gratifying to see how our traditional and liturgical melodies drew so many into the sanctuary. It’s hard to believe, but we celebrate our fifth year in our beautiful synagogue. This is a day for rejoicing and of course, our rabbi, Irit Shillor, will be with us for special Shabbat services to celebrate the miracle. Read our full newsletter here.

Ljudmila Budnikov awarded Order of Merit

On January 15 Ljudmila Budnikov, Vice President of the State Association of Jewish Communities in Schleswig-Holstein, was awarded the Bundesverdienstkreuz – the Order of Merit of the Federal Republic of Germany – by Robert Habeck, the Governor of the State Schleswig-Holstein. The order – Germany’s only federal decoration was awarded on behalf of the German Federal President, Joachim Gauck, to honour Budnikov’s commitment to the rebuilding of Jewish communities and Jewish life in the state of Schleswig-Holstein. Budnikov emigrated from Belarus and was among the founding members of the Jewish congregation of Bad Segeberg as well as the state association of Jewish congregations of Schleswig-Holstein. She is co-chairwoman of the National Association of Jewish Congregations and was involved in the founding of Jewish communities in Kiel, Ahrensburg, Elmshorn, and Pinneberg. One of her personal commitments was and is the religious education of Jewish immigrants from the former Soviet Union. Her activities bring her to nearly every community in Schleswig-Holstein, including Bad Segeberg, Pinneberg, Elmshorn, Ahrensburg, Kiel and any other place to which immigrants are assigned by the state government. Ljudmila is also a volunteer in the inter-religious kindergarden “Sidonie-Werner-Kinderhaus e.V.” in Bad Segeberg. Finally, she is married, with two children and works at the federal youth welfare service in Bad Segeberg.

Voices of Peace: MJLF inter-faith initiative

In response to the terrible events of January and November 2015, a Paris progressive community Mouvement Liberal Juif de France (MJLF) is launching an inter-faith initiative to reaffirm the French Republic's core values and promote mutual acceptance and understanding within French society. On March 22 Voices of Peace will be a round table conference, an official award and a musical ceremony for 1000 guests at the Paris City Hall.

Voices of Peace springs from three main ideas: 1) Despite longstanding reticence in secular France, religious and spiritual traditions must now be heard in the search for social peace and "living together". 2) Religious and spiritual leaders can contribute creatively to public policy debates on current economic and social issues. 3) Extending dialogue to all currents of religious and non-religious thought can strengthen mutual understanding between society’s multiple parts and reinforce the bedrock secular framework (“laicity”) of the French Republic.

To maintain momentum after the March 22 event, an association has been created to reaffirm the legitimacy of religious voices in public debate and to promote ongoing dialogue with politicians, intellectuals, teachers, lawyers, researchers, artists and others. Action on the ground by private enterprise, educators and citizens will be promoted with special attention to young people and the provinces. A dedicated website will capture substantive content, including conference materials, interviews, press articles and videos.

ULIF recent musical events
Two really exceptional musical events recently took place at ULIF-Copernic:
A concert, “The Jewish Pavarotti & Friends” took place in our synagogue on January 27, featuring Alberto Mizrahi, a cantor from Chicago, Sofia Falkovitch, the first female cantor ordained in Europe, l’Ensemble Choral Copernic (direction Itai Daniel), Alissa Zoubritski, piano and Nicole Wiener, organ. The concert was sold out 10 days ahead (never seen before!) and was an incredible success.

A piano recital by top level Jewish pianist Laure Favre-Kahn, a Chopin specialist, who delivered a beautiful programme around the theme of dance, including of course quite a few Chopin pieces, but also works by Mozart, Bizet, Granados, Piazzolla and the late French Jewish composer Olivier Greif (1950-2000).

I really think that only few synagogues in Europe offer this type of musical activity. A third concert has just taken place on February 17: A tribute to Olivier Greif and Dimitri Shostakovich.

Keren Or will join with two mosques and Protestant and Catholic churches for a day which includes an interreligious children’s choir, a quiz, comedy and a round table discussion with Rabbi René Pfertzel, an imam and a priest. The theme is: Let Us Act Together for Peace, and the event will be held in the Cultural Centre of Villeurbanne on Sunday February 28, starting at 10:15 in the morning.

AJTM trip to Israel May 8 to 15
AJTM offers its members a trip to Israel from May 8 to 15, where we will discover Jerusalem and Tel Aviv. This will be a trip with a warm and friendly community. For this event to take place we need 30 participants to offer an affordable price for the greatest number. All details of the trip will be announced soon, but you can contact Aurélien who is the coordinator. Subject to change, the price is 1250 Euros, which includes flights, transfers, accommodation and tours.

From small acorns great oaks grow – or the equivalent, concerning the famous carob tree.
For Tu B’Shvat 5776, at Keren Or, we went from explaining the festival to the traditional blessings and tastings. We followed up with a round the table reading and discussion of two texts (one comparing human life to the elements and development of a tree, the other, the speech given in the Knesset at the first Tu B’Shvat of the modern State of Israel. This year we planted the seed of the celebration of this festival in our new premises. For next year, we’re inviting our Talmud Torah kids to plant a sapling in our garden. ‘Bashana habaa baguina shelanu!’

The Kotel belongs to everyone!

The World Union for Progressive Judaism celebrates the remarkable news from Jerusalem that the Israeli government will officially support the creation of an expanded egalitarian prayer space at the Kotel. The WUPJ owes a great debt of appreciation to Anat Hoffman and Rabbis Rick Jacobs and Gilad Kariv. They deserve our admiration and praise for their tenacity in advancing our cause - and succeeding beyond our imagination. Yasher Koach to them all.

Please read the news stories from JPost and Haaretz and enjoy the 'nachas' of this joyous giant step towards full equality in Israel.
